Sanay photoplays, denies that the motion picture are detrimental to the motion man. But there was something incompleting public. "The great thing in the crime pictures," said Mr. Washburne, "is that the villain were ever so successful in his malicious schemes and plots, then it would be a difficult man between the conclusion of the picture ally think that every one who sees photoplays cordially hates the villain. No one has a thought of emulating him, because the conclusion of the picture always shows that he is worsted, that evil never wins and that good and virture eventually triumph."
